SAFE AT HOME CAMPAIGN

Please help improve the lives of all the children and protect them from harm.

As your gift brings joy and safety to the children, may it also bring you joy.

GRATITUDE

Sister Porkodi at Pandravedu orphanage speaks for all of us: “Your generosity is not just about the money— it’s about the emotional kindness and strength you have given by believing in us. There are no words to describe my gratitude for your incredible assistance.

“Still I wish to thank you for the support you provide—for your dedication and readiness to help with very prompt response to requests. Thank you for your compassion and understanding towards our children.”

Four children’s homes in India have requested solar or battery powered lighting to help when the power is off after dark.

Solar lights can help keep the children safe from dangerous creatures like snakes and scorpions when they use outdoor toilets at night. And some homes need lighting so the kids can study when the power is out.

These requests are economical, ecological and a critical need. Please chip in if you can.

Athipet Tribal Girls’ Home needs an open air shed with roof for washing and drying clothes for 194 girls.

“We don’t have a washer or dryer at our home. During the rainy season it is impossible to dry clothes outside. It can be challenging for the children to wear the required school uniform and so they don’t routinely wash them. Children may become ill as a result of it. Thanking you.”

—Sister Sargunam

SAFE AT HOME

Anna Vitiello Home for Children (our newest home) needs bunk beds for 64 girls.

“We don't have any beds for the children to sleep. They all sleep down on the floor on mats. They are finding it very difficult because there is no proper breeze and they can't get fan air as they sleep on the floor. Added to that, there are a lot of mosquitoes... I appreciate you.” —Sister Maria

Happy Home for Children needs a new underground water tank to keep the 90 children healthy.

“We strive to provide underprivileged children with affordable quality education that will help them to break the cycle of poverty. Unless we provide their basic needs, it's impossible to promote quality education.

“The number of children at our home is increasing. So, water is a very essential factor for the good health of the children. We hope you will understand our situation and help us.”

—Sister Eugene Leema Rose

Balavikasita Sadan needs to paint the boys' and girls' dormitories inside and out for 86 children. Not only is this a pressing need, it is required by the government.
